1 Company Values

1.1 Company Culture

We, at Cinnova, are a customer focused, deliverables oriented, and a process driven company. Our company culture entails that we take our profession seriously, work on our assignments in a dedicated and committed fashion, and learn the most from our assignments. We take pride in our 'can do' attitude and see a 'not my job' syndrome as outside our company culture.

Our management culture is driven by our values. Namely, respect each other, develop a team culture, always set customer's requirements first, go the extra mile in undertaking and delivering assignments, and take great care in managing as well as utilizing company resources in a cost effective, efficient, and prudent fashion.

Our management style and our measurement system is driven by setting objectives, executing quality deliverables, measuring results, giving timely feedback, and rewarding exceptional performance.

We believe in flexibility, but this entails additional responsibility on the individual in terms of managing time and deliverables, coordinating with the team, and utilizing company resources.

It is extremely important at Cinnova to keep a positive mental attitude, to look at problems as opportunities, and to strive toward workable solutions. It is expected that decision making at Cinnova is done in an open and consensus based manner where various driving factors and constraints are analyzed and discussed in a detailed fashion. It is also expected that once the decisions are reached, they are internalized, owned, and implemented with full vigor from all team members.

1.2 Performance

It is also part of our culture not to accept routine and mediocre performance but to set aggressive goals and work toward reaching them in a quality and timely manner. It is expected that we strive, excel, and improve ourselves on an ongoing basis.

Performance at Cinnova is defined as beating expectations on the quality, timeliness, and cost dimensions for a particular deliverable. Thus, for an assignment or a project, performance shall be gauged as how quickly was the project completed, what was the quality level of the deliverable as seen internally as well as by the client, and how efficiently and productively was the project completed in terms of the underlying costs.

In addition, our performance policy also incorporates the level of teamwork and the effort made by the individual to learn and improve himself.

1.3 Team Work

At Cinnova, primary work units are made up of teams. It is therefore very important that employees should develop team spirit and professionalism.

Team spirit is vital for teamwork. It means viewing your colleagues as intelligent and productive individuals. Team spirit means learning to work with your team members without friction and other unproductive activities.

Team Work means that one entire team is responsible for a given project. All members are equally responsible for the quality of the project, the time frame of completion and other aspects of the project. All employees need to realize that since all members of a team are responsible for a project, teamwork and team spirit are essential for success. However, the final decisions for any project will rest with the person senior-most in the organizational hierarchy.

2 Career Path

The company is organized into five distinct functional areas each with a distinct and critical role to play in achieving success and meeting targets and objectives. The functional areas are

1. Engineering
2. Human Resource Management
3. Accounts and Finance
4. Sales and Marketing
5. Logistics

2.1 Engineering

First, engineering is responsible for developing and delivering systems, products, and solutions for existing customers. Second, engineering is responsible for supporting business development and promotional efforts. Third, it is also responsible for strengthening existing and developing new technical competencies.

2.2 Human Resource Management

Human Resource (HR) Management function is designed to undertake staffing & recruiting tasks. It is also geared to support issue resolution and answering queries for new and existing employees. HR function is also chartered to ensure compliance with company policies.

2.3 Accounts and Finance (AF)

It is the responsibility of the AF group to handle company accounts, check and validate payments as per company policy requirements, authenticate & verify expense claim/invoices, and make necessary payments that are in compliance with company standards.

2.4 Sales and Marketing

The Sales and Marketing function is responsible for market research, collateral generation, business development, and account management activities.

2.5 Logistics

The Logistics function's objective is to provide support services so that the other functions in the company can execute their deliverables properly. Key services included in the Logistics function cover such items as maintenance and operations of the company facilities and provisioning of supplies.

2.6 Grade / Designation Chart

To provide a clear growth path and to ensure proper responsibility at the proper time, a grade chart is provided as Appendix A. The starting point for a career is generally at the Programmer level for engineering and at the Assistant level for other functional areas. Note that employee grade will be revised after every 3 years from date of joining/last upgrade and will get effect from start of next fiscal year. Similarly employee designation will be reviewed for revision after every 2 years from date of joining/last upgrade and if revised will get effect from date of annual review. Note that employee grade will be reviewed after every 3 years from date of joining/last upgrade and if revised will get effect from start of next fiscal year. Similarly, employee designation will be reviewed for revision after every 3 years from date of joining/last upgrade and if revised will get effect from date of annual review.

2.7 Employee Confirmation

A new employee may be confirmed on or after successful completion of the probationary period. The probationary period may range from 2 to 6 months and will be decided at the time of hiring by the responsible manager. The probationary period may also be extended to a longer period if so desired by the responsible hiring manager.

2.8 Cessation of Service

At Cinnova primarily work units are made up of teams. Employees individually as well as part of teams play a critical role in assuring success at all levels. Cinnova wishes to retain the services of all team members who perform their duties efficiently and diligently. However, cessation of employment may sometimes be necessary for the good of the employee and/or the company. This can happen under two scenarios;

- (a) Regular Resignation/Cessation of Service;
- (b) Termination under breach of conduct

2.8.1 Regular Resignation/Cessation of Service

During the terms of service before confirmation, 10 working days (excluding weekends) and after confirmation, one month notice or payment of one month salary in lieu of notice by either side, unless otherwise mentioned separately in any other agreement/ document executed within and/or outside this Company Policy document, will be required for regular resignation/cessation of service. It is also worth noting that payment for any outstanding dues including salary plus any extra days and other benefits will be paid only at the successful completion of the notice period and such payment will be made on the 15th day from the last service day at the Company. Note that in case of 45 or 90 days notice under contract, employee will be eligible to get 50% of his monthly salary during notice period. An employee who has or has been served notice of cessation is still an employee till the end of the notice period. Therefore he/she is required to carry out his job assignments as vigilantly as it was expected before serving or having served such notice. Failing this may result in converting the cessation into termination under breach of conduct. In case of breach of required notice period, company reserves the right to take necessary action including stopping payment of the dues whatsoever and contacting the future employer indicating the breach of conduct by the employee.

2.8.2 Termination under breach of conduct

The Company reserves the right to terminate services and/or convert regular cessation into termination under breach of conduct with immediate effect in case an employee is found incompetent, non-responsive, irregular in attendance, guilty of misconduct, insubordination, in violation of confidentiality or conflict of interest policy, to have used company facility improperly or indulging in activities prejudicial to the interest of the Company. Employees terminated under breach of conduct will not be eligible for salary in lieu of notice and any other company benefits whatsoever including non-issuance of the experience letter. Company also reserves the right of stopping payment of the dues whatsoever in case of breach of provisions mentioned herein and in the 'Non-Competition, Non-Solicitation, And Confidentiality Agreement'.

2.9 Employee Appraisal Policy

The purpose of the Appraisal Policy is to establish a system for the appraisal, development, and documentation of all regular staff employee performance. The goals of performance appraisal are:

- a. To help ensure that the quality and quantity of work performed by staff members best meets the Company's needs;
- b. To allow for continuous communication between supervisor and employee about job performance;
- c. To offer the supervisor and employee the opportunity to develop a set of expectations for future performance;
- d. To provide the opportunity for the supervisor and employee to assess the employee's past performance;

- e. To provide supporting documentation for pay decisions, promotions, transfers, grievances, complaints, disciplinary actions, and terminations.

2.9.1 Procedure for Appraising Employees

- a. The Staff Performance Appraisal Policy reflects the use of criteria based on most commonly used evaluation criteria relevant to the nature of our Business.
- b. The supervisor will have the duty of ensuring that each employee is aware of all performance standards.
- c. At least one week before the appraisal interview, supervisors may, at their discretion, ask employees to evaluate themselves before the appraisal interview.
- d. Note: The annual performance appraisal interview is only one element of the total performance appraisal system, which should include constant feedback, coaching, planning, and other communication designed to make the employee more effective.
- e. The supervisor will rate the employee on the Performance Appraisal Form according to the standards set for each expectation on the following attributes:

Technical Skills
Quality/Accuracy
Productivity
Flexibility
Domain Understanding and Analytical Skills
Responsible / Reliable
Problem Solving
Communication
Initiative
Learning skills
Teamwork
Stress Handling
Interpersonal Skills
Leadership
Planning & Organization of work
Knowledge Sharing
Work Ethics
Punctuality / Regularity
Decorum and appearance
Loyalty and dedication

- f. The supervisor will arrange to meet with the employee in a private setting to discuss the ratings.
- g. During the course of the interview, it is important that the employee be told of concrete examples of work behavior that contributed to his or her rating.
- h. Feedback should consist of observations and descriptions rather than opinions and judgment.

- i. The supervisor should spend part of the interview listening to the employee. Ratings assigned should reflect the supervisor's awareness of incidents that occurred during the appraised duration that may have had a negative impact on the employee's performance, but were beyond the employee's control.
- j. Ratings and scores are not final until after the performance appraisal interview.
- k. The supervisor, employee, and the HR Manager will sign the Performance Appraisal Form.
- l. A sliding scale to rate an employee's performance is permitted, accordingly:
- m. Sliding scale for a score between 1 and 2 would be: 1.0, 1.1, 1.2, 1.3, 1.4, 1.5, 1.6, 1.7, 1.8, 1.9, and 2.0. This scoring pattern can be used for scores between 2-3, 3-4, and 4-5.
- n. If, during an appraisal period, an employee is transferred from one supervisor to another, the annual performance appraisal shall be conducted by each supervisor of the employee proportionate to the amount of time the employee was supervised by each supervisor during the preceding appraisal period. The final appraisal score will represent a percentage of time the employee was supervised by each supervisor.
- o. In the event an employee is simultaneously supervised by more than one supervisor during the same appraisal period, the performance appraisal score shall be proportionate to the employee's FTE assigned to each supervisor.

2.9.2 Implication/ Impact of Appraisal on Salary Increment and/or Employment Contract

The rating of the employee as an outcome of the Appraisal Process will affect the timing and value of the Salary Increment. The impact of each rating is mentioned in the table below:

Rating	Impact on the Salary Or Employment Contract
1	The Salary Increment will be given exactly after Twelve months since previous increment and value of the increment will be based upon the appraisal rating.
4	The employment status will be changed to probation to raise/improve his/her performance. Failure to meet the expected improvement in the performance even in the probation period will result in the termination of the employment contract.
5	This may lead to the termination of the employment contract.

Note: If an employee joins before the 10th of any month, his appraisal will be done in the same month after completing a year with the company. Those joining after 10th will be reviewed in the next month. e.g. an employee joining after 10th of March 2024 will be reviewed in April 2025 and his salary increment, if so decided based on the review results, will be effective from 1st of April 2025.

3 Office Procedures

3.1 Office Hours

To ensure teamwork and timely availability of an individual, all employees need to adhere to the office timings. An employee should inform the respective manager in the event of any variance from the office hours. We work on 40hrs-work week basis, where after excluding the lunch/Juma breaks, our regular working hours are:

Monday through Friday.	9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
Lunch & Prayer break	1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. except Friday
Lunch & Juma break	1:15 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. on Friday

Note that the lunch/Prayer breaks that are there for employees to take lunch breaks or to do various chores or undertake personal work. While maintaining a 40-hour workweek, Ramazan timing may be adjusted according to seasonal variation.

All employees are required to be present in the company on regular working days during core hours, defined hereas 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Here, while handling the flexibility of core hours, the expected 40 hours/week workload must be maintained.

To ensure teamwork and productive use of group efforts, all employees are expected to be in the office during core hours. If an employee's working hours fall below the core (8) hours on a particular day, it shall not be considered a workday.

Although we follow a 40-hour workweek, it is important to note that in certain cases such as deadlines or emergencies, employees maybe expected to undertake late or off day hours. Teams if asked to work on an off day by their respective manager for a duration of over 6 hours shall be entitled for a lunch or dinner allowance of Rs 800/- per person per approved off day.

The company maintains an extensive holiday policy including Saturday and Sunday as off days. In addition, a Paid Time Off vacation pool is also made available as per Appendix B. The company shall also observe holidays listed in Appendix G. Any holiday not listed in Appendix G will not be observed. However, additional or other holidays outside Appendix 'G', if necessitated or desired, shall be availed by utilizing the Paid Time Off vacation pool.

3.2 Check In/Check Out

Each employee shall check in when entering the office, and check out when leaving the office. This includes arrival in the morning and departure at the end of the day, as well as all personal and official trips. The employee must inform the respective manager before leaving the office for a break, this is imperative so as to avoid unnecessary delays in other people's work performance and to ensure productive use of time.

Please note that checking out everyday at the time of departure is employee's utmost responsibility and failing to do so will result in marking half work day for that particular day.

The employee attendance sheet shall form the basis of all attendance-related calculations and the movement form shall be the basis of all calculations related to local travel. Thus the employees are expected to pay particular attention to the check in and check out procedure.

3.3 Weekly Activity Report

Every employee is expected to file a weekly activity report which would serve as the basis for establishing the person's work load, activity, and project involvement for the particular week. The activity report shall serve as the written basis for establishing work progress by the individual. As such, the activity report is a critical document and is reviewed at all levels in the company. The Weekly Activity Report is to be submitted, reviewed by respective managers, and filed with the logistics department within seven days (5 work days) after close of a work week.

3.4 Dress Code

To ensure a professional work environment, it is important that all the employees come to the office wearing professionally acceptable attire (such as shirts, trousers, and jeans). Within the general realm of acceptable attire, responsibility for selecting appropriate clothing is left to the employee's judgment. Managers may however advise an employee on professionally presentable outfit. Note that shorts, sleepers etc. are not considered acceptable office attire.

3.5 Facilitation

Where feasible, the logistics department shall facilitate employees up to certain limit in purchase of meals. All employees are requested to cooperate in this matter by adhering to the prescribed timings for the designated person's visit to the market.

This service is available as a courtesy and the company shall not be responsible or liable for any loss or damage incurred in this process.

Meal Schedule: For Lunch Monday through Friday 11.45a.m. Snacks 4.00p.m

Note that the company kitchen is available on self-serve basis and employees are welcome to use the facility in that fashion. To maintain hygienic condition and to avoid odor, insects & flies, meals shall be served in the lunch room or in the kitchen. Employees are advised not to use development halls for lunch and dinner purposes.

3.6 Disclaimers

Employees are advised not to bring their valuables to the office. The company shall not be held responsible for any direct or indirect loss of any valuables or personal belongings/possessions including but not limited to (cars, bikes, wallets, jewelry, watches, mobile phones, computers etc.).

3.7 Guests

To maintain quiet and to protect company confidentiality, all unofficial visitors including former employees on company premises should be signed in and escorted by an employee. Employees shall not escort visitors outside the reception area. Visitors after office hours or on off days shall only be allowed at the reception area.

3.8 Professional Behavior

To maintain a professional atmosphere, employees are expected to avoid participating in activities, which may cause disturbance in the work environment.

We believe in an open and friendly work environment. However, such freedom should not be interpreted in an unprofessional manner. Each other's right to privacy and quiet & clean workspace should be fully respected. It is also expected that employees will not try to be unduly social or unnecessarily friendly in a mixed environment on company premises.

If any employee has a grievance with anyone, it should be reported to his/her supervisor so that the issue can be resolved properly and in a discrete fashion without disrupting others.

3.9 Respect for Property

All employees are expected to respect property rights of others as well as the property rights of the company. Thus it is expected of employees not to use other person's belongings, including their PCs, workspace, supplies, etc. without their permission.

3.10 Use of Company Facilities

Facilities provided by the company i.e.(Computers, Printers, Internet, Air conditioners, Heaters, Telephone etc.) are there to provide a productive and pleasant work place. Employees are expected to use proper judgment and prudence in utilizing such facilities. Personal local calls are allowed, however, good judgment should be used regarding the duration and number of telephone calls. Use of company facilities for improper purposes will be treated as a breach of conduct.

Proper Net etiquette should be followed while using the Internet. Data, files, programs installed on office computers are intended for office use and shall be deemed as company property and can be reviewed as and when required by the company.

3.11 Account Protection

Unauthorized access by anyone of anyone else's passwords, computer accounts, or password-protected applications are strictly prohibited. Breach of which shall be taken seriously.

3.12 Personal Hardware, Software & Data etc.

To maintain an office environment and to minimize inherent risk, employees shall not bring personal hardware, software, or other instruments to the office premises.

3.13 Confidentiality

Employees are expected to hold proprietary and confidential information in strictest confidence, not to make use of the proprietary and/or confidential information other than to perform the obligations under any assignment or engagement, not to reproduce the proprietary and/of confidential information except as required for completion of the company's assignments or engagements and, upon the request of the company, to return the confidential information at the conclusion of an assignment or engagement, or upon termination of employment.

The obligations of the employee shall also extend to any confidential or proprietary information of third parties in the company's possession to which the employee may have access during the performance of any assignment or engagement including but not limited to information of any company customer.

The employee shall not at any time during the continuance of his employment with the Company nor at any time after its termination, howsoever arising, convey or communicate to any person any of the confidential information concerning the organization, business, or affairs of the Company or any of its client, associated or partner companies which comes to his knowledge during his employment with the Company and he shall keep secret all confidential information entrusted to him and shall not use or attempt to use any such information.

The employee shall make no public statement, including without limitation, any public announcement related to the performance of the company, its particular engagements, assignments, and clients without written consent from the Company. At any time, upon company request, the employee shall remit to the Company all material and all work in progress and such work shall become the property of the Company.

Confidential information shall include the following classes of information relating to the Company's business:

- 1) Information supplied by the company, its clients, its affiliated or partner companies, which is disclosed in connection with work performed under any assignment or engagement is the proprietary information of the company.
- 2) Trade secrets and other proprietary and confidential information which are owned by the Company and which have to do with the operation of the Company's business; and data, information, lists, or other identifications of clients, or prospective clients of the company.
- 3) The nature and types of services rendered to such clients or proposed to be rendered to prospective clients, fees charged or to be charged, and proposals made to the company's clients or prospective clients.
- 4) Inventions, methodologies, algorithms, formulae, processes, compilations of information, form and content of databases, designs, drawings, models, results of research, reports, records, specifications, software, firmware, and procedures used in or related to the company's products, or services.
- 5) The company's relations with its employees including without limitation to salaries, job classifications, skill levels, performance appraisals, incentives and financial rewards.
- 6) Sales, marketing, and financial data compiled by the company as well as the financial, sales, and marketing plans, statements, programs, and strategies, customer lists, and pricing information.
- 7) All ideas, concepts, information, and written material about a client disclosed to the employee by the company or acquired from a client of the company.
- 8) Any other information designed by the company to be confidential, secret and /or proprietary.

3.14 Conflict of Interest

It is extremely important that we maintain a clean and professional relationship that is void of any conflicts of interest.

- 1) The employee shall not during the employment with the Company enter into or engage directly or indirectly in any business that competes with the business of the Company.
- 2) The employee, during the course of his employment with the Company, will not engage in any other business directly or indirectly or receive commission or any other compensation in money or in kind for introducing business, clients and client contacts to any other person without the written permission of the Company.
- 3) The employee shall not use the confidential information and trade secrets disclosed to him or of which he may become aware during the course of his employment with the Company to do business on his own, or with anyone else at any time during or after the termination of his employment, howsoever caused with the Company.
- 4) An employee shall not undertake another business, job, project, teaching or consulting work for financial gain without the prior knowledge of the company. This is imperative because doing multiple tasks at different places inherently affects individual performance and impacts company projects.
- 5) The employee certifies that he has no outstanding agreement or obligation that is in conflict with any of the provision of this policy or that would preclude him from complying with the provisions hereof and further certifies that he will not enter into any such conflicting agreements during the term of employment with Cinnova.

3.15 Ownership Rights

All material produced or ideas conceived or developed, whether jointly or individually, during and in the course of employment with the company including without limitation, designs, processes, adaptations, inventions, concepts, methods and techniques, are 'works-for-hire'. All rights, title and interest in and to such materials and ideas, including, without limitation, all copyrights and patents, are owned by the company. The employee agrees that if materials produced or ideas conceived or developed under these terms or assignments are deemed not to be 'works for hire' then the employee hereby irrevocably assigns to the company all of its rights, title, and interest in and to such materials and ideas including without limitation all copyrights and patents.

4 Leaves

4.1 General

The company maintains an extensive holiday policy including Saturday and Sunday as off days. In addition, a liberal Paid Time Off vacation pool is also made available as per Appendix B. The company shall also observe holidays listed in Appendix G. Additional or other holidays outside Appendix 'G', if necessitated or desired, shall be availed by utilizing the Paid Time Off vacation pool.

The types of leave available to employees are:

1. Paid Time Off
2. Compensation Leave
3. Maternity Leave
4. Unpaid Leave
5. Non-Cashable Leaves

Employees should apply for leaves or extension of leaves via email to attendance@cinnova.com with appropriate timing for each type of leave. The validity of the leave will be subject to the approval of the application by the respective manager and HR.

Notice of an employee's intention to take Paid Time Off vacation must be given to the company prior to undertaking the vacation. This will enable teams to schedule vacation in a manner that will not be disruptive to the projects.

Under extraordinary and exceptional circumstances, the company may request an employee to make such reasonable adjustment in the proposed timing or duration of leave as may be mutually convenient.

Other general guidelines are mentioned below:

- Five day work week means that each working day is important. You must schedule any activity on Saturdays or after office hours. Even if you have to be somewhere during the working day then try utilizing the half-day policy. Half day policy suggests that you must be in office for at least five (5) hours. Please note that following minimum hours are required to mark your presence in office:
 - a. Full Work Day: You are required to be available in office for 9 hours to mark a full work day. Less than 9 hours on two occasions will be acceptable but less than 8 hours at any point will not be considered as full work day
 - b. Half Work Day: Minimum of 5 hours and less than 8 hours are required for a half work day.
 - c. Absence: Less than 5 hrs (including Lunch/ Prayer Break) will be marked as absence.
 - d. Lunch Break: This break time cannot be used to set off your late arrival. Use this time for lunch, prayer or if you need to step out of office. You must check out if you ever need to step out of office outside lunch hour.
- Sometimes leaves are inevitable and in such a case you must do the following:
 - You must email to the HR and cc your immediate Manager and attendance@cinnova.com in case you are late or not coming to office.
 - Unapproved leaves will be penalized accordingly.
 - Unapproved leaves which were not authorized on earlier request but still executed can result in disciplinary action.
 - The leave must be pre-approved if it is planned.
 - Unplanned leaves request must be submitted to HR for approval via email and are allowed only in cases of emergency. HR reserves the right to reschedule or disapprove leaves where needed.

- Planned leaves request should be sent to HR via email and cc'd to your manager/lead. Apply for leave in advance, at least 2-3 days prior to the leave day.
- Leave Approval: Leaves will be authorized first by your immediate Manager and then by HR. In most cases leaves are approved instantly if available. However, Manager or HR can disapprove or reschedule due to work load or resource scheduling.
- Bad Weather: Due to unforeseen weather conditions, you must report in office even if there is some delay on your arrival.
- Performance Review: You must keep in mind that your attendance is part of your performance review. A pattern in leaves or excessive leaves do not contribute well towards your performance appraisals and may also impact your consideration on Quarterly award and other bonuses.
- Probation: There are no leaves during your probation period and will result in deduction.
- Company Holidays: Official holidays will be listed on the notice board. Any holiday not listed will not be observed. Please note that in any case corporate holiday policy is independent of government holidays.
- Only the confirmed employees may avail their leave quota. Any leaves by the employees on probation, will be considered as unpaid leaves.

4.2 Paid Time Off

The purpose of PTO is to provide employees with flexible paid time off from work that can be used for such needs as personal or family time, illness, vacation doctor appointments, and other activities of the employee's choice. The company's goal is to reduce unscheduled absences and the need for supervisory oversight. PTO combines all types of leaves in one single bank.

4.2.1 Guidelines for PTO Use

PTO allotment is based on time and grade with the company (Appendix B). For example each full time confirmed employee will accrue one PTO day on monthly basis if their grade is equal or less than 5 and duration is 0-3 years with the company. PTO taken will be subtracted from the employee's accumulated accrued time if available. Non accrued PTO time will require supervisory approval to avoid deductions. Absences outside designated PTO quota will be considered unpaid time-off. Probationary employees and interns are not eligible to accrue PTO.

4.2.2 PTO Encashment

For the benefit of everyone, those not utilizing available PTO days will be able to encash their remainder balance at the end of the fiscal year.

4.2.3 PTO Procedure

- Planned leaves request should be sent to HR via email and cc'd to your manager/lead. Apply for leave in advance, at least 2-3 days prior to the leave day. Unplanned leaves are allowed only in emergency situations and request must be submitted to HR for approval via email.
- Unapproved leaves can result in progressive disciplinary action up to and including employment termination. This time will be unpaid. The only possible exception to this policy may be through management's exclusive discretion.
- PTO accrued prior to the start of a requested and approved unpaid leave of absence must be used to cover missed days before start of unpaid leave and days out of such unpaid leave if available.
- An employee who receives a second official warning in a rolling 6 months time period will have his or her employment terminated.

- Any employee who misses three consecutive days of work without notice to the HR may be considered to have quit their job without notice and company may take appropriate action in such cases.

4.3 Compensation Leave

Compensation leave is a facility geared toward recognizing an exceptional effort put in by the employee or an off-day work called by the manager for putting an extra effort to get things done well in time. Please note that a continuous presence for minimum of eight (8) hours on an off-day will be considered eligible for a compensation leave. A compensation leave, once approved, will be added to the PTO quota accrued till that time and will be eligible for encashment at the end of the fiscal year under the PTO procedures.

4.4 Maternity Leave

4.4.1 Eligibility

A married female employee who has been in continuous service of the company for at least 18 months prior to the date of confinement will be eligible for maternity leave.

4.4.2 Entitlement

An eligible employee shall be entitled to maternity leave with pay for 3 weeks before and 3 weeks after her confinement one time during service with the company.

4.4.3 Procedure

The employee must give a written notice on the prescribed form, supported by a medical certificate, informing that she expects to be confined, at least one month in advance of the proposed start date of leave. In case the employee has not given the notice referred to above, and has been delivered of a child, she should, within seven days, give notice on the prescribed form that she has been delivered of a child.

4.5 Unpaid Leave

Extraordinary leave may be granted at the discretion of the company in special circumstances involving absence from duty and if so approved shall be considered as Unpaid Leave. Also note that leaves out of PTO quota and leaves during probationary period are also considered as Unpaid Leaves.

4.6 Non-Cashable Leaves

Apart from the normal PTO leaves quota, there are 5 Non-Cashable Leaves available to every confirmed employee who has been in continuous service of the company for at least 12 months from the date of confirmation. Please note that these leaves also accrue over time and will collapse at the end of fiscal year i.e. June 30th. These leaves can only be utilized after the full consumption of allocated PTO quota in a year. All approval procedures as laid down in PTO section will be applicable in case of Non-Cashable leaves too.
